Starting in the late 1920s, Doris McCarthy, a student at the Ontario College of Art, spent many of her school breaks with fellow student Ethel Curry on Drag Lake (top three photos.) Two of their paintings from these days will hang at the Haliburton Hospital. One summer they also travelled to the East Coast with an unidentified friend, below. Our thanks to Sheila and Don Popple for sharing the photos.

Two friends,

together again

DORIS MCCARTHY has earned international renown for her evocative and serenely beautiful paintings of the Arctic.

This Friday, the recipient of the Order of Canada and numerous other prestigious distinctions will be in Haliburton to pay tribute to the woman who introduced her to the wonders of winter.

McCarthy is donating one of the paintings she did during one of her early forays to Haliburton to the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Foundation.

It will hang at the Haliburton Hospital beside her friend Ethel Curry's favourite painting, bringing the two friends and their love of art together again.

"Curry introduced me to winter painting up there and it's been a very important part of my life ever since," says McCarthy, who was first invited to share the Christmas holiday with the Curry family in Haliburton when she was a second-year student at the Ontario College of Art in Toronto.

"I want to memorialize her," she says of why she was so eager to respond to Don and Sheila Popple's request for a painting to hang beside the painting the Popples donated at the official opening. (The painting is by Ethel Curry, who was Sheila's aunt.)

"I want to thank Curry for all she gave to me. I can feel as if we are partners again."

Ethel Curry, who died earlier this year, was born in Haliburton in 1903 and grew to share her parents' deep love for the outdoors, especially the wilderness to be found around Drag Lake, where Ethel had a cabin and her father, W.R. had a logging camp.

As a young woman from Haliburton, not only was it rare to continue with her education past high school, but she also made the bold move of enrolling in the Ontario College of Art. She stayed only a year, however, until economic pressures convinced her to switch to teaching and she got a job at one of the rural schools in the Highlands. But a few years later, her love of art drew her back to the Toronto art college and it was there, in her second year that she met McCarthy, eight years her junior, and the two became close friends.

In a telephone interview, McCarthy says "I was only 17 when Curry invited me to come home with her for the Christmas holidays. When I was seven, my family had gone to Robertsons' boarding house on Lake Kashagawigamog so Haliburton had a halo around it, the very word."

Once she was introduced to the town Curry had raved so

by MARTHA PERKINS

much about, "why shouldn't I fall in love with it?"

"...Curry was so in love with her world it was contagious."

She remembers Ethel's mother hitching up the horses, throwing blankets into a sleigh and taking the two young women to the family's property on Drag Lake. While McCarthy and Curry would paint, "Ma Curry" would fall asleep under the blankets. When the two painters were ready to go home, they'd wake her up and set off.

McCarthy's 1990 memoirs, A Food in Paradise, contains some of the most evocative images of Haliburton's early days.

"It was dark when we reached Haliburton," McCarthy writes. "I emerged from the smelly (train) coach with its dim oil lamps into a world of sharp cold snow and brilliant stars. Waiting for me was a horse and sleigh, with Curry's mother, a round bundle of shabby fur coat below a woollen blanket, perched on the driver's seat.

"It was like stepping back 50 years. The Curry house had electric light but water was gravity-fed from a cistern upstairs, which had to be filled by a hand pump in the kitchen. Too enthusiastic an attack at the pump brought water pouring down the kitchen wall from above. Hung up in the back shed was the frozen carcass of a buck, shot in hunting season, ready for butchering piece by piece as needed. Down in the cellar, was the wood furnace, and the long wall of cut wood to keep it fed. Curry and I made a work space there, with our backs kept warm by the furnace, and a strong blue bulb hung from the ceiling to give us 'daylight' for finishing the oil panels that we brought home every morning and afternoon..."

"Curry gave me her world, the winter woods full of animal tracks, the snow fanning from the stump fences in drifts of sculptural purity, the log homes and the tar-paper shacks with

Her diary of December 29, 1928 recounts going into the woods by sleigh. "We saw some striking bits of colour - a blue door, and a pink-and-grey one, and some gay washings hung out to dry. The last few miles were through a wild bit of wood - rough uneven trail, hardly a road - twining black birches and elms tangled up in saplings and underbrush..."

"Arriving at [one of W.R. Curry's lumber camps] was an adventure, too. We sat down at one of the long tables and ate gustily from tin plates, drinking out of tin bowls. But the climax, more thrilling even than the cutter part, was the walk over the lake, dazzling in sunlight, Curry and the men ahead, picturesque in breeches and windbreakers, casting vivid shadows, and the hills around the lake. I loved the keen wind, the feel of the snow under my feet and especially the sense of high adventure."

Every school holiday over the next four years, Curry invited McCarthy home to Haliburton.

Looking back at their paintings from those years, McCarthy, in an interview with

The Echo, she says "there's something in the freshness of young work, when it was all new and exciting... The vitality and passion and conviction in (the work) is still there."

Commenting that there are few women today who venture out into the remote wilderness, McCarthy says that back in the '20s and '30s, "my generation was conditioned by the Group of Seven. We just took it for granted" that you went outdoors in rugged conditions to paint. However, she does admit "we were a bit of a phenomenon in those days."

Today, she says, "they're too damned careful of themselves."

After graduation, Curry and McCarthy's painting careers went in opposite directions. For Curry, it was a case of unrequited love and the fact that as tastes in art changed, she was rejected by a few juried art shows.

"She got discouraged about it," McCarthy says, and instead of putting herself through the emotional and financial stress of becoming professional painter, she became an art teacher at a Toronto high school and dedicated herself to her nieces and nephews. If she wasn't going to be a professional artist, Curry said "I will be a damned good aunt." And she was, as the loving eulogies at her funeral could attest.

It is Curry's niece Sheila Popple and her husband Don Popple who donated one of Curry's paintings to the hospital. Popple's brother then approached McCarthy about donating one of her paintings so the two women could be side by side again.

It is entirely appropriate that art is such an important part of hospital environment since the Haliburton Highlands are about to become known as "a natural work of art."

And McCarthy says the Highlands has Curry to credit for its strong arts environment. Curry actively encouraged and nurtured it, bringing her two passions together.

Doris McCarthy is in a generous mood these days. As well as donating "Frozen Lake, Head Lake, Haliburton 1933" to the Foundation, she's also donated her house atop the Scarborough Bluffs to the Ontario Heritage Council. It will be used as a retreat for artists.

She will be at the Haliburton Hospital to take part of the unveiling of her most recent act of generosity on Friday, December 1 at 3 p.m.. People are invited to join the HHHS Foundation in welcoming her and praising her for such a meaningful tribute to one of the Highlands' most treasured residents.

Drag River Project receives injection of provincial funding

MARTHA PERKINS

Editor

A group of high school science students have left a living legacy on the shores of the Drag River in Haliburton village.

Along with all the other work done by Haliburton Highlands Secondary School to restore the walleye spawning bed, clean up the oil that's leaching into the river and stabilize the shore, these teens have created "apartments" for fish.

The tiered stone slabs placed where the river meets Head Lake offer fish shade in the summer and protection from predators.

They also have a benefit for humans, and not just the ones who like to fish. While improving the fisheries, the students have also stopped the river bank from slowly sliding into the river.

It's not surprising, therefore, that the funding for this latest addition to the Drag River rehabilitation project came from the Ontario government's Living Legacy Trust fund.

Last week, the Ministry of Natural Resources' acting area supervisor for the Minden area came to HHSS to present the school with a $10,000 cheque and sign a partnership agreement for the work.

"It's a shining example of how far students can go with a fairly complex resource management project and be successful," Terry Eccles said.

"You are ambassadors," said Dave Flowers, the Minden MNR's fisheries extension biologist who has been working closely with the students on several projects at the Drag River and the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association's fish hatchery.

Flowers says that when other ministry staff are taken on a tour of all the students' projects, they "can't believe" the extent of work that's been accomplished. "The sky's the limit," Flowers said of future endeavours.

Adding that a lot of high schools wouldn't have taken a chance on such a massive challenge, Flowers told the students gathered in Principal Gary Brohman's office that "unless you take the risk and get involved, you'll never see the benefits."

"It's all about partnerships," Brohman said, praising the students, their teachers Dave Mowat (who was just awarded Highlander of the Year for spearheading the project) and Derek Little, and the MNR who have helped provide expertise and access to funding dollars.

(The Living Legacy funds complement monies received through the province's

MARTHA PERKINS/ECHO

While HHSS principal Gary Brohman, his administrative assistant June Smith and science students look on, Terry Eccles, the acting area manager for the Minden Ministry of Natural Resources office, signs a Living Legacy Trust agreement for work on the Drag River. The students have already spent most of the accompanying $10,000 check on building "apartments" for fish at the mouth of the Drag River at Head Lake.

Community Investment Program. The $10,000 will pay for work that's already been done.)

"It shows we really do care and we want to make it better for everyone," says student Liane Dron.

"We can be a role model," agrees Charlyn Irvine. To other teenagers and the community, the success of the project shows that teenagers can have a positive effect on the world around them. "This is our environment and we can make a difference."

Brohman said the school welcomes other schools to have a tour of what the students have accomplished.

But instead of just concentrating on what has been achieved, Flowers reminded the students they still have a role to play in monitoring the river and fisheries to see how much of a difference their work has made.

"You scientists always like a conclusion," Brohman laughed.

Get into the Christmas spirit with a Highlands tour

ERIK MARTENSSON

Staff Reporter

B & Bs from across the Highlands will be spreading some holiday cheer as open their doors for the first ever Christmas Tour of Haliburton Highlands Bed and Breakfasts this coming weekend. Nine establishments from Kinmount to West Guilford will be decorated to help raise funds for the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts.

Similar to a house tour, the B & B tour gives owners an opportunity to promote their establishments during what is traditionally an off season.

Several of the B & Bs will be showcasing the work of guest artists and musicians and participants are also invited to stop in at the Rails End Gallery for Afternoon Tea between 1 and 4 p.m. As well, tour goers are encouraged enter a draw to win Virginia the Bear donated by Teddy Time or a gift certificate from Memories, Etc.

Participants in the Tour must purchase a Tour Guide to give them access to all the participating B & Bs. The $10 keepsake guide comes complete with recipes from each of the B & Bs and is available at the Rails End Gallery, Teddy Time, Country Rose, the Chamber of Commerce, Natural Foods, Golden Stationers, the Ethel Curry Gallery and all the participating B & Bs.

B & B Tour Committee Chair Pam Smith is optimistic the event will attract both tourists and Highland residents if the weather cooperates.

"We hope people will come out and enjoy themselves and support the Guild and spend a pleasant day touring the B & Bs of the Highlands."

She estimates over 200 guides have been sold and is expecting people from as far away as Toronto and Peterborough to come to the event.

Smith imported the idea of a B & B tour to the Highlands after seeing a similar event advertised in the Midland Chamber of Commerce Guide. If things go well the tour will be held annually with the proceeds going to a different non-profit organization every year.

Smith adds the event would not have been possible without the support of all the B & Bs as well as the local businesses who have advertised in the Tour Guide.

"It's terrific the support they gave us, they did a great job. We really appreciate the local businesses supporting this endeavour."

The Christmas Tour of Haliburton Highlands Bed and Breakfasts takes place this Saturday, December 2, and Sunday, December 3, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Look for the white signs with green lettering pointing you in the right direction.

The little church on the hill that grew

by Ruth Carter

THEY WOULD COME on horseback or wagon. They could come by canoe. Or they would walk. There were no roads – just paths meandering through the bush. It would take some of them as much as two hours to get there. But every Sunday they came, this little group of people. They came to pray together and learn from God's Word. After a simple service they would share the food they had brought and have a good time of visiting. A day of rest, when they could put aside the business of the week. Sundays and these informal gatherings were their highlights.

The little group got a bit bigger. Soon the homes in which they met could no longer contain their increasing numbers. They moved their Sunday services to the school house and on August 27, 1905, 16 people under the leadership of The Reverend Dr. Albert Thomas Sowerby incorporated as the West Guilford Baptist Church.

Within the year, work on a modest building had begun. The three Barnum brothers, charter members of the congregation, donated land on the north shore of Pine Lake. Local businesses donated lumber and other supplies. A bee was organized and the building erected in short order as many volunteers came and contributed their skills and labour.

At first the little church on the hill was pastored by students from McMasters Divinity School. They would travel up from Hamilton once a week. Eventually, the congregation shared a "circuit-riding" preacher with a couple of other churches, most recently the Eagle Lake Community Church and Lakeside Baptist in Haliburton.

As the years went by, the tiny congregation remained strong. While it experienced its ups and downs as all churches do, there was always a core group of stalwart folk that kept it going but by 1989, however, it appeared the church would have to close its doors. The congregation was at an all-time low and the building itself was condemned. Conventional wisdom said this was the end. Disband the congregation and push the building into the lake. Conventional wisdom reckoned without the tenacity and faith of that little handful of people. Conventional wisdom reckoned without God and His grace. With much prayer the Hendersons, Fieldings, Bains and a couple of others picked up their hammers and went to work. They renovated and repaired the building, moved it up the hill and gave it a basement. They even splurged on indoor plumbing!

When Pastor Paul and Linda Benson arrived to take over the West Guilford/Eagle Lake Charge in 1992, the Baptist congregation had started to grow again. God has blessed it with constituents from all corners of the Highlands. Its summertime congregation comes from all over this continent and even overseas. That little white building on the hill is full to overflowing on many Sundays. It has become obvious that the building is no longer big enough to accommodate the people coming.

So the people are building again. Early this summer, the foundation for an addition was dug and the basement put in. Over the months, the floors and the walls of the main level have gone up. The roof is completed. The building has taken shape. There is still much to do before it is finished but it's well on the way. As the building itself grows and takes shape, so too is the congregation. The volunteer building crew, mostly comprised of retired men, is forging friendships that will

Thanks to the volunteer help of such people as Pastor Paul Benson, Robert Snelgrove, Bryce Condon, Jean Henderson, Dick Henderson and Terry Barnum, the West Guilford Baptist Church will soon have a new addition - debt free. A decade ago, low attendance raised fears the church would have to close.

last a lifetime – an eternity.

God is building the faith of people who congregate there in West Guilford each Sunday. They are becoming more and more aware that the church is not that building. The Church of God cannot be contained by walls and a roof. The Church of God is the people of God. We are the Church! It would be too easy to place our pride in that lovely building and its workmanship. It would be too easy to identify ourselves with that which has taken so much of our labour. But that building will not last. One day it will be gone. Fire will take it, or tornado, or even the ravages of time. One day there may not even be a memory of that building on the hill. But the Church of Jesus Christ will continue, not because the people of God are faithful but because God Himself is faithful and it is from God that we get our faith. Continue to look to Him!

Blast of Cash winners collect their rewards

Cathy OLLIFFE

Special to the Echo

A trio of Haliburton residents will be getting a blast of cash for Christmas.

Robert Denboer was the grand prize winner of $12,500 in the Blast of Cash lottery. Greg Bishop won $7,500 and Ann Varty won $5,000. The three winning tickets were drawn Saturday night during the Christmas Gala held by the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts at the Rails End Gallery.

Guild president Barry Hayward presided over the draw, letting people know in advance that many board members had tickets and that, if they won, they would be keeping their prizes. "All's fair in love and lotteries," he said, drawing hearty laughter from the glittering crowd at the gala.

Earlier that evening Dysart et al Reeve Murray Fearrey took some good-natured ribbing when he and Donna McCallum won two wreaths in a row – very generously, the reeve gave one of the wreaths up so that someone else could have a chance to take one home.

Dozens of large, plain wreaths were given to local artists and businesses to decorate and the results were spectacular. Some were inspired by nature, with pine cones and dried flowers, fungus, painted birds or butterflies; others were loaded with dazzling stained glass ornaments, satin ribbons, angels, hand-painted snowpeople or Christmas lights.

The Rails End Gallery was jam-packed with well-dressed art lovers who bought tickets for the wreaths and bid on the many beautiful handmade Christmas ornaments being auctioned off by Bev Muir. They also enjoyed the cocktail party atmosphere, sipping wine and sampling fancy hors d'oeuvres.

The Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts Christmas Gala brought out a generous crowd who opened up their wallets in support of the Guild.

Consider giving support this holiday season

by Peter Forgrave

Capital Campaign Committee

As the Christmas season quickly approaches, the annual quest for meaningful gift-giving comes into focus. A perfect solution for this dilemma will be appearing in your mailbox very soon when you receive Warmest Holiday Wishes from the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Foundation.

Inside you will find a friendly invitation to the Christmas Open House being held at both the Haliburton and Minden sites, as well as a pledge card. The year 2000 could be the year to begin a new family tradition of annual support for your health care facilities. While these facilities are certainly open and functioning, financial support is still needed to pay for the buildings, equipment and furnishings.

Your participation this year could be in the form of an immediate donation, or as a pledge, or in one of the many other ways of making special gifts. To date the Foundation has raised $4.1 million on its way to the goal of $5.5 million in donations, pledges and special gifts needed to support our excellent healthcare facilities.

The Foundation is very committed to recognizing all contributions in a tangible way, and in fact are very proud of, and grateful for, the enthusiastic support that has been shown by all facets of the communities being served by both facilities.

One of the long-lasting components of the recent Official Opening was the unveiling of the Donor Walls located adjacent to the main lobby in both the Hyland Crest Facility and the Haliburton Hospital Facility. All donors contributing $2,500 or more will have their name inscribed on the Donor Walls in the appropriate category.

Donors contributing less than $2,500 will have their name published in the Books of Honor located on the Donor Walls. These walls will be updated annually in order to recognize on-going donations.

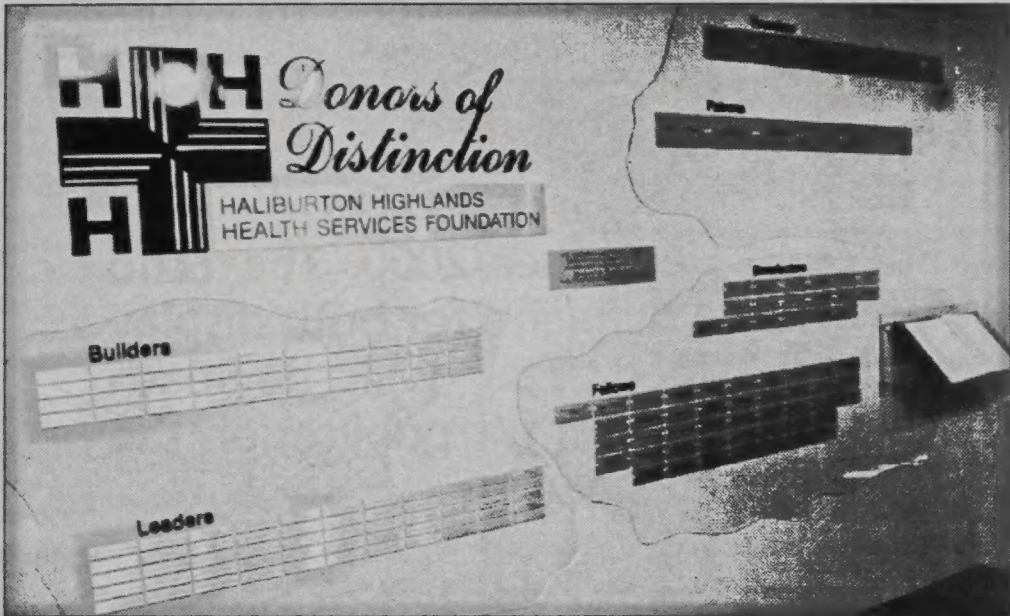

As well all donations are recognized in print in the HHHSC Annual Report, and in the widely circulated Newsletter which is published 3 times each year.

A perfect start to this Season of Giving would be to use the card enclosed in your mailing to begin an annual tradition of support for your community's healthcare facilities. For more information, contact the Foundation offices at 286-1580 or 457-1580.

The Wizard of Oz comes to Haliburton

Yes, we're off to see the Wizard, as Razzamataz-KIDS SHOWS! presents its first spectacular concert of the season, "The Wizard of Oz", performed by Erewhon Theatre.

Erewhon Theatre has brought a new dimension to performances by teaching the children in a pre-show rehearsal a simple method with which the children can "travel through" the "land of Oz". The actors bringing these shows to audiences in various communities have to be very innovative and "on their toes" to be able to deal with "the unexpected" during a live performance. Erewhon Theatre has been able to present high quality shows that are really giving back to the communities they visit.

Last year Razzamataz-KIDS SHOWS! featured Erewhon Theatre's "Charlie & the Chocolate Factory". After the Actor taught the children their parts, he involved them in such a humorous way, that none of them seemed self-conscious. A couple of the children, whose mothers never expected them to be outgoing, were stars of the show! This year, by popular demand, Razzamataz-KIDS SHOWS presents Erewhon Theatre's Katherine Pophan as the "stagemaster".

Eight to ten children are asked to come forward to come to the pre-show rehearsal, and play alongside the Actress. We will select the children randomly from those that volunteered. We will contact you and the children will be required at the Theatre forty minutes prior to the show.

Don't miss this exciting and innovative play, which promises to be a truly memorable experience for the participants and audience alike. "The Wizard of Oz" appears in Haliburton on Sunday, Dec. 3, at 2 p.m. at "The Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavillion". The presentation of this outstanding performance has been made possible by The Ontario Arts Council and by the following local sponsors: CIBC Haliburton and Curry Motors.

Tickets are $18. each for the series (includes all four shows) or $8.00 per adult/$5.00 per child at the door. The other shows of the series will be "The Stylamanders", "Join Hands Puppeteers" and "Mortal Coil Performance Society". Please note, seating is limited and this is the last chance to buy 2001/2001 series tickets, which will also be available at the door. Series tickets may also be purchased in advance at "Masters Bookstore" in Haliburton.

For ticket and show information, or to find out how your child can participate in the performance, please call Julie at 457-3414.

A lot of people have a watch dog but who besides me was a watch cat? My cat is four years old and is still a kitten, all glossy black with four white paws and a white Charlie Chaplin Moustache. I have owned a cat (or they have owned me!) for many years but vowed that the last one was the last. When my elderly cat Amber became ill and had to be put to sleep, I was adamant that this was the last time I was going to go through this traumatic trial again. No more cats. Ever. The vet. asked me if I wanted another kitten and I told him no, but he must have known something I didn't. He invited me to sit down as he had something to show me. He brought out a little black and white kitten with a splint on his right paw. I think the wiley Dr. saw I was softening in my decision not to have another cat as he told me the kitten's story of being found abandoned and injured and in need of some tender loving care. Now four years later, Clancy, as the kitten was named, is a frisky, delightful, if not lively addition to my life and home.

H.H. - If you place a flat pan of water on the bottom shelf of the oven before putting your fruit cake in to bake, it will eliminate the possibility of burning or scorching on the bottom or sides of the cake.

Outpost to hold annual Christmas Open House complete with hot apple cider and decorations

The Wilberforce Heritage Guild hopes you will drop by the Outpost Historic House on Thursday, December 7 to participate in the annual Christmas Open House.

This rather informal event is a time to relax, chatting with friends and neighbours, sharing memories of earlier times.

Amidst the natural and homemade Christmas decorations enjoy hot apple cider and other refreshments. If you have a short favourite Christmas poem or story, bring it along to read or recite. Come for a short time or stay all afternoon and or evening: 1 to 4 and 7 to 9.

We are pleased that Marion Tallman is home after a week's stay in the Haliburton Hospital and hope that she will soon feel much better.

The Christian Crusade 2000 at the Harcourt Chapel included special events and speakers each night last week Nov. 19 to 26. Dorothy Rivers reports that every night was special. The music was great, the speakers inspiring, especially Mr. Gerry Libby. Special musicians included Dan Foster, Robinson Ladies Trio, Ray and Bev Harrington, the Libby Children and a Bancroft Youth Group.

Remember the Craft Sale at the L.W.M. Centre this Saturday December 2 from 9 to 3 you can pick up some exciting gifts from the many craft tables. The sponsoring group, the Millennium Committee, will have sandwiches, hot dogs etc. for sale as well as a draw for a coin set.

Sympathy of the community goes to Flo Oram and family with the death of Michael on Thursday, November 23, 2000.

Hilda Clark

448-2018

Mike had struggled long with cancer and put up a good fight. He will be missed in the community. Visitation took place last Friday in Haliburton and funeral service at St. Ninian's Anglican Church in Toronto on Monday.

Sympathy is extended to Harvey and Irene Somerville of Essonville and their family. Their granddaughter Amy passed away suddenly last week at the young age of 19. Amy was daughter of Dianna and Ken Nibbs. Visitation and funeral service were at Fairhavens Community church in Bolsover on Thursday, November 23, 2000.

A Seniors' Bonspiel will be held at the Monmouth Curling Club on Wed. Dec. 6. Regular seniors' curling will be moved to Thursday that week.

The Gentlemen of Song were part of the festivities at the Festival of Trees at the Memorial Centre in Peterborough. They sang on Saturday, November 25, with many from Wilberforce joining to listen to their performance. They were pleased to have Ernie Hemphill rejoin them for this event. Jim Donovan drove over to Beaverton and brought Ernie and Evelyn over to be part of this "Wilberforce" outing. Having the Hemphills in the group again was very special.

Attending the 148th Synod of the Anglican Diocese of Toronto from the Parish of Haliburton last week were the Reverend Christopher Greaves and the Rev. Maggie Milne. Lay delegates from St. Georges were Lindsay Coates and Lynne Johnston and Deanery Youth delegate Dan Schell. Hilda Clark was the lay delegate from St. Margaret's Wilberforce.

Please note: The wild game dinner at the Legion is Saturday Dec. 2 from 5 to 7 p.m.

HHSS to get flashing crosswalk over Hwy 121

Mary Turner

Special to the Echo

The following are brief reports from the Parents' School Council of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

Parent's Night

The Parent's Night was held on Nov 15th, with a better attendance than in other years.

Guidance

Our guest was Chris Duchene, department head for special education and guidance. Her very informative presentation introduced us to a document "Choices into Action". As its objectives are implemented, each student will have a guidance plan to deal with present problems and future goals. Some aspects are already being implemented, such as the teacher advisory plan and an annual education plan for each student.

Special Ed: The school has 11 educational assistants. There are 174 identified gifted and learning-disabled students, each one having an individual education plan. A written evaluation is done twice a semester, and parents see the evaluation mid-term. Parents are encouraged to work in conjunction with the teacher.

Honours and awards

Principal Gary Brohman reported that awards totalling $30,000 were presented to deserving HHSS students. Congratulations to each and all!

Drag River Project

Gary, rightfully proud of his students, bragged that although all the money for the project came from the provincial government, all of the labour was provided by HHSS students under the direction of teacher Dave Mowat. Take time when you're downtown to visit the site and see the transformation!

Crosswalk

Be aware motorists that a crosswalk area, labelled as such with a flashing light, will be established from the front parking lot access across Hwy 121. Details are still being worked out with the county.

Transportation

We welcomed Dave Freeman, in charge of school bussing for Laidlaw Transportation, to the meeting. It was acknowledged that there are many problems on school busses, but nothing was resolved at the meeting. Perhaps other parents would like input into any future discussions on this concern.

School Council Voice Mail

In case you missed this item last month ... this year we want to make it easier for parents to express their concerns on any area of school activity. To do this, you may call the school at 457-2950. During school hours, ask to leave a voice mail message for the School Council, which is extension 549; after school hours, simply select extension 549. This line is private and confidential, for School Council members only. The teaching staff will not be able to access these lines.

Co-curricular Activities

Two drama trips took place, both to Toronto. One was organized by Mrs Shapiera to see the Medieval Feast, and the other was arranged by Ms Halas Moulton and Ms Mitchell to the Young People's Theatre to see The Hobbit.

Coming Events

Grade 9 testing in math will be taking place in January. A history trip, organized by Mrs

Paton, will be going to the ROM at the end of November.

Next meeting

Tuesday December 5th, at 7 PM, at the school. On the agenda will be a discussion about Ontario Secondary School Evaluation which awards grade levels to students. At the Parent's Night, there were many questions about how these grade levels will be awarded. Gary Brohman will endeavour to bring clarification in this matter.

Parents: Anyone is welcome to attend. Come out! These meetings concern YOUR KIDS!

Student's Council Report

The next couple of weeks at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School are sure to be busy. Thanks to the dedicated members of the Student's Council, the end of November and the month of December are going to be very exciting.

From November 20th until November 24th, the students of the high school may be dressing a little different than usual. This week plays host to "Spirit Week". Some of the theme days planned are, "Winter dress up Day," "Twin Day" and, "Tacky Prom Day".

Also with "Spirit Week" came the start of a new fundraiser.

The S.A.C has started selling gourmet lollipops. This week the many flavours (such as Cotton Candy, Banana and Pina Colada) were unveiled. The S.A.C will sell the lollipops each Friday to raise money for various student planned events.

On December 15th, the annual "Semi-Formal" will take place. This year, the DJ company will provide an erupting volcano and leis to go along with our theme "A Hawaiian Christmas".

The rest of 2000 is going to be a very busy time for students of H.H.S.S! The holidays seem to be coming quickly and we hope that everyone will participate in these activities to make the holidays fun and exciting!

Holiday celebration planning already underway

Pat and Ron Dawson of Burlington who were teaching in Mosli for two years, when Sid Cooper was there, visited Sid and Louise recently. The Dawsons wanted to tell the Coopers about their recent month-long trip when they travelled in Tanzania.

Christmas programs are being rehearsed and festival evenings arranged throughout the next month, some having started already. Even the smallest of churches catch the excitement and are well worth paying attention to (if you'll pardon the ending of the sentence).

If you would like your news in this column please phone me at the number above or at 2278.

How could eleven people be transported to a scene two thousand years ago in so direct a fashion? Through images time work by Maple Lake United Church Women that is exactly what happened on Nov. 22nd.

Myra Marshall conducted two reporters, one from Bethlehem, one from Jerusalem in interviews with people on the scene: shepherds and Herod's court respectively. The six in the audience participated as we were invited to sing carols in response to the questions of what happened at the interviews.

It all took place in under an hour and before we knew it we were being served delicious fare in the now spacious basement area. Thank you U.C.W.

It would be remiss of me not to mention other

Guilford people who contributed so much to the success of "The Real Thing". If you've ever been in theatre you'll know that it takes at least twice as many crew as cast and put on the production, therefore appreciation goes also to visual designer Rose Pearson, backstage manager David Mills who with his wife Betty Mills aided the set construction. He and Rose Pearson with Darrell Dobson were responsible for the set design. David is already in charge as director of next year's Summer Festival.
